INSTRUCTOR OF CHEMISTRY

The Department of Chemistry at New Mexico Tech invites applications for an Instructor of Chemistry position, with appointment to begin Fall 2022. This is a full-time, permanent position. The successful candidate will teach introductory and intermediate Chemistry courses and may additionally teach advanced and graduate courses. The candidate should also help attract majors to our program. A typical course load will be 12 credits per semester; summer teaching may be an option, as well. Applicants should have a record of excellence in teaching at the undergraduate level. A Master's degree in Chemistry is required at the time of application. A PhD is preferred.

New Mexico Tech offers an American Chemical Society certified Bachelor of Science (BS) degree in Chemistry, along with options in Biochemistry and Environmental Chemistry. A Bachelor of Arts (BA) degree pathway is available to students who prefer a broader curriculum. The Department of Chemistry serves the entire campus, as all BS students must complete a year of General Chemistry. Our Chemistry major is distinguished by its rigorous curriculum, including upper-level electives. A strength of our program is early involvement in research, including mandatory engagement in 2 semesters of mentored research during the senior year. We have well-established graduate programs in Chemistry, including master's, accelerated master's, and PhD pathways.

For best consideration, please apply by November 15, 2021. Candidates must complete an online application and electronically attach a single PDF document, including all of the following: cover letter including the names and addresses of three professional references; curriculum vitae (CV); summary of teaching experience; and statement of teaching philosophy. Materials should be sent to nmtjobapps@npe.nmt.edu c/o Rosa Jaramillo and copied to the search committee chair (Jeffrey.Altig@nmt.edu – Put IC2022 in the e-mail subject line). Inquiries should also be directed to Jeffrey Altig.
