Gabriel Partido

Major: Mechanical Engineering

Minor: Explosive Engineering

Gabriel “Gabe” Partido is a New Mexico native, a Senior, and an engineering and explosives enthusiast. His New Mexico Lottery Scholarship funding ran out in Spring 2019; with two years to go until graduation, Gabe is thankful to be a recipient of the President’s Tuition Assistance Scholarship for Fall 2019: “This scholarship allows me to continue as a full-time undergraduate at NMT, and gives me time to find and procure other funding sources for my final two years.”

In addition to taking a full course load of classes each semester, Gabe has been a student employee each semester. He started as Student Research Symposium (SRS) team member, then advanced to SRS Student Team Lead for the 2017 SRS. Shifting gears slightly, he was then employed as Events Coordination Captain by the Office for Advancement and Alumni Relations from 2017 - 2018. Really shifting gears, he worked at EMRTC in Spring 2019, while still helping Advancement on their event days. Last summer he worked as a full-time mechanical engineering intern at a New Mexico solar energy company.

His plans for the future include a career in explosives research, ideally at Los Alamos National Labs, as well as finding a suitable outlet (e.g., membership in the American Pyrotechnics Association) to pursue his interest in fireworks.

Gabe wants everyone who has contributed to the President’s Tuition Assistance Fund to know “I am truly grateful to all the generous donors who financially support this scholarship and to the NMT presidents who started and have continued it. For NMT students, this can be the lifeline to graduation. Thank you all!”
