INSTRUCTOR OF ENGLISH COMPOSITION

The CLASS Department is looking for a full-time English instructor to teach classes in our Undergraduate Writing Sequence, which includes two courses of freshman composition and technical writing. The teaching load is four class sections per semester. Responsibilities include delivering lessons, commenting on and grading student work, and conferencing with students. The instructor will also participate in informal writing program meetings to discuss pedagogical techniques, lesson planning, and grading strategies.

An MA or MFA in English, Communication, or related field by August 1, 2021, with experience teaching college-level composition courses. A background teaching technical writing and/or to students in the STEM fields is preferred.

Communication, Liberal Arts, and Social Sciences is a vibrant multidisciplinary department of scholars from Technical Communication, Science & Technology Studies, Philosophy, Spanish, History, and Composition Studies. In addition to supporting a strong BS program in Technical Communication, department faculty teach general education courses tailored to the needs of the student body and participate in interdisciplinary research efforts. Still developing degree programs include an MS in Communication and Design for Public Engagement as well as BA programs focusing on digital media, communication, and design.
