Welcome to the Fall 2024 Semester!

Dear Colleagues:

We start this new academic year with a long list of many of your achievements: Another Goldwater Scholarship, U.S. Fulbright Scholar, and patent. More high rankings. We are on the cusp of finally being recognized as a solid R2 institution, thanks to our many graduate programs. And millions of additional dollars in research grants.

We are also ready to finalize a significant fundraising campaign, thanks to the dedicated staff in our Advancement Office. We have also started the long and complex processes involved in a website redesign and in institutional rebranding.

This is only a partial list of campus highlights, but know that your hard work and dedication are recognized and appreciated.

Please check your campus emails for details of the Weeks of Welcome. And please go online to techConnect to discover campus engagement opportunities, events, student groups, resources, workshops, and other happenings that take place throughout the semester.

NMT thrives because of all of you. Our students, faculty, staff, alumni, and friends have made NMT a force in science, technology, engineering, mathematics and entrepreneurship since we were founded in 1889. I can't wait to recognize more your achievements over the course of the fall semester and beyond.

Warm regards,
Mahyar
