The American Institute of Chemical Engineers (AIChE) branch at New Mexico Tech would like to receive funding for the travel, hotel and registration fees to have members attend the Rocky Mountain Regional Conference in Laramie, Wyoming. The students would leave for Wyoming on Friday April 21st, 2023 and return on Sunday April 23rd, 2023. The club is wanting to sponsor nine (9) members who are interested in attending the conference. Many of the members are presenting their undergraduate research at this conference.

A hotel was found and will be booked in Laramie, Wyoming in which 2 rooms were reserved. Each room contains two double beds and each double bed will sleep two members (4 people per room). The last person will be bringing an air mattress so as to avoid renting another room. The hotel found was the Days Inn located 2.1 miles away from the University of Wyoming campus. The rooms cost $92 per night per room. This totals out to $415 (including taxes and fees). This was the cheapest option to house the nine members who plan to attend the Rocky Mountain Regional Conference.

To get to Wyoming, one NMT van will need to be rented. The facilities management form says that the vans can be rented for $0.60/mile including gas. As the trip is 650 miles each way, that brings the travel cost to about $800. The estimate for travel within Laramie is included in the $800. There are two drivers lined up who are certified through the university to drive the NMT vehicles (Arrika Duran and Giovanni Gabaldon).

The last part of the cost would be for registration fees. Each student must register to attend the Regional Conference. The “early bird” fee is $60 for each member. The registration cost will increase after early bird prices end and will be $75/person. AIChE is hoping to cover the registration fees for the nine members attending since the regional registration fee is lower than that of nationals. The registration cost would come out to be $540.

In total, the requested assistance is $1755.

All receipts would be kept and returned to the SGA upon return from the Rocky Mountain Regional Conference. All food will be paid for by the members themselves when in Wyoming. The club has fundraised so the club can save up for the upcoming conference. Detailed below is the itemized budget:
